TIPS & TECHNIQUES

WIRE BRUSH RENEWAL

The front section of a wire brush is always the first to wear out. To rejuvenate a worn brush, clamp it upside down in a vise and saw off the part with the worn bristles (about 1 inch). Another option is to snap off the bent or damaged bristles with a wire cutter. Cut them diagonally so that the ends will be sharp. Be sure to wear eye protection when cutting.

LEAKY BUCKETS

To find the exact location of a bucket leak, turn on a small table lamp and remove the shade. Place the bucket upside down over it. The light will shine through the hole.

To make a temporary patch over the hole, fill the hole from both sides with pure silicone caulk. The caulk layers adhere to each other better than to plastic. Or drip candle wax over the hole. The wax plug will stay intact but will melt if you pour something hot into the bucket.

PLUMB BOB SUBSTITUTE

If you don't have a plumb bob handy, try using a chalk line box as a substitute. Secure the hook end of the chalk line and extend the string; then mark the spot, using the tapered bottom end of the chalk box as a reference.
